

Guidelines for Judging

- 1) Three judges and one alternate will be selected. Any connection with an artist submitting an entry would disqualify a person from being chosen to judge the exhibit.
- 2) The judging will be open to the public but may be closed if the contest director feels there is any sign of communication between the audience and the judges.
- 3) There will be no communication among the judges during the time the entries are being judged.
- 4) All entries will be inspected by the judges during the preliminary round. Entries receiving two or more check marks will advance to the first round.
- 5) During round one, judges will conduct a silent vote by holding up a card numbered from 1 to 6. Judges will not consult each other's cards. The total will not be announced. Entries having 8 or more points will advance to round two.
- 6) The same procedure will be followed in round two, the final round. All points will be totaled.
- 7) The artwork receiving the highest number of points in round two, the final round, will be the winner.
- 8) The winner will be announced immediately following the final round of competition. There will be no official second or third place or honorable mention. The names of the 10 artists receiving the highest total points will be made available to the public upon request.
- 9) Protests, by contestants only, may be registered with the contest director and must be submitted in writing within 5 working days after judging. In the event the winning entry is disqualified, the entry receiving the second highest score shall be declared the winner.
- 10) If there are less than 10, entries the DNR reserves the right to deviate from protocol described above.
- 11) In the event there are less than 10 entries there will be three judges, each judge will complete a ranking sheet, and the winner will be that contestant accumulating the greatest number of points. During the ranking process the judges will not communicate with each other.
